

Relationship Spread

Card		Interpretation
How it all began	Ten of Wands	This relationship began in a time in your life when you were hard work and not really putting your focus into love. You had just taken extra burdens and were responsible.
Perceived Relationship Strengths			Perceived Relationship Conflicts
Card		Interpretation		Card		Clarifier		Interpretation
You	Death	Being with him makes starting over feel inevitable and easy. He brought about positive change that set the way for a healthy path.		Six of Cups (reversed)	Gazelle	Some of his behaviors can remind you of past trauma. It keeps you stuck in the past and you can't seem to leave the past behind you and are always waiting for the other shoe to drop, but you do not have to be hyper-vigilant anymore. Take a sit, breath deep and notice all the new joy this relationship has to bring.
Your Partner	Five of Swords (reversed)	He enjoys that you make him look at his past and face it. You make him brave to face the future ahead without resentment.		Three of Wands (reversed)	Bee	You make him work harder than he ever has in any relationship. He feels like you undervalue yourself and on top of it lack the foresight to understand how things will play out in the future. You like to jump in with both feet while he is hoping for slow perfect calculated steps. While the bee is normal happy working as a team when the responsibility workload is unbalanced that's when he's ready to sting. Take a mini-vacation together to reconnect and align your goals. Make sure you are on the same page.

Final Outcome	Nine of Wands & Elk	This relationship will push both of your boundaries. At time it might even test your faith, but the elk denotes a stable support system. You will learn what you truly value in life and gain the support you need to stick to them. When conflict arises you might stubbornly be holding onto your own personal way of doing things refusing to see that while the other person's strategy is different it might also be right. When in balance you feel a warmth and stability from one another.				Actionable Steps
						To bring your relationship back into a happy balance when things have gone awry pay attention to what you are consuming. Have you brought back something toxic from the outside world? Make sure you are not letting outside forces influence your reality.
